

NZTC CHINA

OPENS UP A WORLD OF OPPORTUNITIES

New Zealand Tertiary College (NZTC) is delighted to announce a unique venture that has started changing the approach to learning for early childhood students in Fujian China.

Earlier this month representatives of NZTC including the Chief Executive, Selena Fox travelled to Fuzhou, the capital city of Fujian province China, to support the successful launch of NZTC's first courses as part of a Sino-New Zealand Cooperation Program, an exclusive agreement between NZTC and the Fujian Preschool Education College. As the second largest early childhood teacher college in China, the Fujian Preschool Education College celebrates 100 years of delivering early childhood teacher education in 2015.

Selena Fox commented, "It is thanks to our shared vision for the future education of young children that this a truly special partnership has come to fruition. Over recent years we have worked closely with the Fujian Preschool Education College to ensure that we understand the needs of the early childhood sector in China and this initiative marks significant progress in our mission to empower effective early childhood educators across the world."

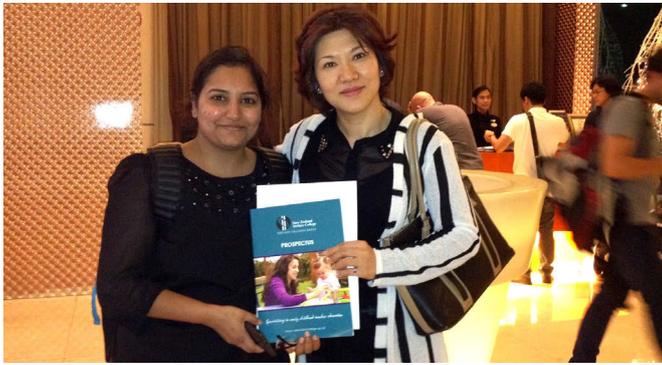

The Sino-New Zealand Cooperation Program gives students in the joint program the chance to complete a three year diploma in early childhood education approved by the China Ministry of Education which includes a New Zealand Qualifications Authority (NZQA) approved early childhood qualification.

Through this exciting new initiative, Fujian students are engaged in international perspectives and approaches to study and research; supporting the growing emphasis on English language skills for modern day teachers and educators of young children in China. Graduates of the diploma will look forward to completing their Bachelor of Education (Early Childhood Education) in New Zealand.

SUCCESSFUL CHINA VISIT

Last month Audrey Wang, International Marketing Manager at NZTC travelled to Guangzhou and Hong Kong to recruit prospective students and connect with educational partners face-to-face.

There was a high level of interest in studying in New Zealand with preparation for applications to pursue a career in early childhood education already underway.

NZTC student profile

Priyanka Mathur

Graduate Diploma in Teaching (Early Childhood Education)

New graduate Priyanka loves the variety of her role and has secured a full-time job, thanks to the ample field experience she gained as part of her program.

After completing a Bachelor of Education (Early Childhood Education) through NZTC's office in India, Priyanka seized the opportunity to study the one-year Graduate Diploma in Teaching (Early Childhood Education) in New Zealand, as she already held a Bachelor's degree.

Priyanka saw the strong practical component of her program as a huge advantage and believes the best part of studying with NZTC was the requirement to work 16 hours a week at a licenced early childhood centre: "You can have everything on paper, but applying that is very different," says Priyanka. "None of my friends who studied elsewhere had this requirement, and it's definitely given me the advantage. I worked hard in my home centre; improving my practice and maintaining a positive relationship with my team, and I'm delighted to have secured a full-time role there."

2015 FEE STRUCTURE

As part of our commitment to keeping our education partners up to date with our latest news and announcements, we'd like to share our revised fee structure for next year which will take effect from January 2015.
